Mark's 12th Win

Mark Tarr at the Finish Line after crossing the “moat”, a large puddle of water on the road.

Squall @ the Finish

The day dawned warm under rosy clouds, just like on the shirt, but by noon the sky was gray and drizzly. Two hours later conditions had turned blustery and torrential, and storm drainage from the parking lot flooded the finish line. Quick ditching work brought a instant 6” deep moat down to 2”. Hey, how about a steeplechase after the bushwhack next year?
